Job Of Fighting Reds Is Nonpartisan, Says Adlai

Springfield, Ill. (AP) — Gov. Adlai Stevenson said last night "The problem of fighting Communist penetration in government . . . must never become a political football."

HST Charges Ike's Views Harmed U.S.

Aboard Truman Train (AP) — President Truman charged yesterday that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower "did a great deal of harm" to the United States with his views on Russia immediately after the second world war.

The President said the Republican presidential nominee "ought to be honest enough to admit his blunders about the Russian."

Eisenhower's views as commanding general in Europe, Truman said, left this country unaware of Russia's threat to world peace.

Truman, carrying his whistle campaign on behalf of Gov. Adlai Stevenson across Montana, used a rear platform talk at Havre to mount another barbed attack against the GOP standard bearer.

Eisenhower headquarters at New York declined to comment.

At one point in his Havre talk, Truman said Eisenhower was "glad to get on my handwagon for foreign policy."

In a departure from his prepared speech, Truman said that in 40 years of politics "I have been in some rough and tough campaigns," but none involving the "lies and slander" spread by the Republicans this year.

"And before I get through with them, they'll wish they hadn't done it," he snapped.

Police Chief Virgin Mooney estimated the Havre turnout at 3,000.

Superforts Fire Target

Seoul (AP) — U. S. Superforts from Japan and Okinawa pounded a prime Red Korean chemical plant on the Manchurian frontier for 2 1/2 hours early today and left it in flaming ruin.

Forty-eight of the big Superforts made their runs single file on the target through a web of searchlight beams and blossoming clusters of anti-aircraft fire.

Tokyo headquarters said all planes returned to their bases.

The Far East Air Forces said B-29s hit the sprawling Namsan plant in Northwest Korea, 27 miles northeast of Antung, for the first time in the war. About 400 tons of high explosives were dumped on the target. Civilians had been given an Allied warning to flee the area.

Earl Browder, Wife Arrested By FBI Agents

New York, (AP) — Earl Browder, once America's top Communist, and his Russian-born wife were suddenly and quietly seized yesterday by the FBI.

They were accused of lying about Mrs. Browder's Communist background in 1949 while she was seeking American citizenship. She and her husband, it was charged, both swore she never was a Red.

U. S. Atty. Nyles J. Lane said Mrs. Browder "attempted to obtain through fraud the most valuable possession a person can have—namely U. S. citizenship."

The couple was held in default of $2,000 bail each. A hearing was set for Oct. 6.

Upwards Of 6,000 Russian Soldiers In North Korea

Seoul (AP) — A high U. S. Eighth Army officer said yesterday 5,000 or 6,000 Russian technicians and advisers are in North Korea and probably man anti-aircraft guns that fire on Allied planes.

This is the first time a high, responsible officer has made such a charge although there has been much speculation that Russians fly jets or serve as technical advisers in anti-aircraft, tank and artillery units in Korea.

If true, much of the Communist anti-aircraft defense in Korea is an all-Russian operation, since the source said the guns were made in the Soviet Union.

50,000 Cheer Eisenhower In Carolina

Columbia, S.C. (AP) — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower swept into the Southern states for the third time yesterday and stirred wave after roaring wave of applause when he said of the Truman regime: "We have an administration which may go down in history as the scandal-a-day administration."

A crowd estimated by Columbia Police Chief L. J. Campbell at "nearly 50,000" massed in front of the white pillared state capital to hear Eisenhower tear into the Democrats on a wide front of campaign issues.

In introducing Eisenhower yesterday, Gov. James F. Byrnes called him "a son of the South, born in Texas."

The governor, a lifelong Democrat, said "South Carolina is out of the bag." He referred to assumptions that Southern states normally are in the Democratic bag.

He said of Eisenhower: "In this hour of peril, I would rather have a professional soldier than a professional politician as president of the United States."

Touching one of the main campaign issues, Byrnes declared, "The people of South Carolina know the job of cleaning up the mess cannot be entrusted to the men who made the mess."

The GOP candidate, departing from text, opened his speech by noting—and denying—what he said are a series of rumors about his intentions, if elected.

He said a whispering campaign has begun to the effect that, if elected, he will close and otherwise curtail military installations in the Southern states. Another report, he said, is that he will cut soldiers' and sailors' pay.

Eisenhower said the rumors were totally false. "Having been a soldier all my life, it is foolish to think I would do anything to weaken the security of the United States."

The crowds boomed when Eisenhower mentioned Stevenson. He referred to the Illinois governor with these words:

"When my distinguished opponent comes here I know that they will give him a warm reception."

A storm of boos and raucous yells interrupted him.

He waited an instant and added: "But I'm glad I got here first and I intend to stay ahead of him all the way."

Eisenhower asked a series of questions, and the answers came back in roars from the crowd. He quoted Stevenson as saying, "It is the fault of you—the people" that the problems confronting them have appeared.

And then, citing the danger of a third world war, inflation, Korea, charges of misconduct in public life, the loss of China to the Communists and the whole series of major problems, Eisenhower asked, after noting each:

"Are you to blame?"

Committee Calls Smith To Testify

Washington, (AP) — The House Un-American Activities Committee decided yesterday to call Gen. Walter Bedell Smith for testimony on what he knows about Communist infiltration in government agencies.

The hearing will be held Oct. 13 in Philadelphia.

The announcement came just after Smith, chief of the super secret Central Intelligence Agency, had backed a step away from his statement that he believes Reds have penetrated every American security agency including his own CIA.

The general, elaborating on his original remarks, said merely that it was necessary to "assume" such a thing has happened.

New York, (AP) — Former Congressman Clare Boothe Luce, asserting the safety of every American "depends on rooting out the traitors," said last night American soldiers in Korea are "facing weapons developed for our use, and stolen by the Communists who have infiltrated into our government."

Mrs. Luce's speech was sponsored by the Republican National Committee and delivered over radio and television networks.

Army Unveils Atomic Cannon

Washington, (AP) — The Army has stripped the secrecy mantle from a huge gun made to shoot atomic shells at enemy troops on a battlefield 20 miles away.

At the Aberdeen, Md., Proving Grounds the other day the Army showed off two of the guns to visitors to:

1. Back up its year-old claim that it really has its own atomic weapons, just as the Air Force and the Navy have planes to carry atomic bombs.

2. Show that the 85-ton gun can travel highways, wheel off to travel cross-country to wherever an Army division commander wants an atomic barrage put down and then go into action within 20 minutes.

The visitors came away from the demonstration convinced that the atomic cannon now appears ready to join the other artillery of the Army which, the old song says, can roll "over hill, over dale, along the dusty trail."

Whether it so far has fired an actual atomic shell no one except a few experts in the Army and Atomic Energy Commission can say. And they declined to talk on that point.

2,604,139 Now On U. S. Payroll

Washington, (AP) — The federal payroll increased by 851 workers during July, the smallest monthly rise since September, 1951, the Civil Service Commission reported yesterday.

This upped the total of civilian employees in the executive branch of the government to 2,604,139.

GSA Program Fills Vital Phase Of Community Life

By Leonard Randolph
(See Editorial Page 4)

(The Girl Scouts organization this year will receive $2,500 from the Community Chest fund. Some of the activities of the unit are described here.)

There are four all-important influences in the lives of young people.

The first of these, of course, is the family. Those things which children are taught in the home are lasting things—deeply indoctrinated philosophies and viewpoints which remain with them through most of their adult lives.

A second major influence is the school. Here the child learns to accept or reject the theories of traditional learning which are placed between the covers of books.

The school teaches also, the science of the search for knowledge in all things. Its attempt to create an atmosphere of research, initiative and a quest for knowledge is of great importance to the young adult in his formative days.

A third great influence in the life of the child is, without doubt, the church.

Here, in addition to worship, the child learns to achieve faith in the indomitable spirit of Man. This faith prepares him for the common conflict of society in which he lives. It may provide peace through belief.

A fourth—and in one sense—larger influence than any of these is the community itself.

Since it is the sprawling machinery of society in its most common form, the community may exercise either a bad or a good influence upon the children who grow up within its boundaries.

Because there is a necessity for organizations working toward the betterment of young people, such public service groups as the Girl Scouts of America have come into existence.

Today, in our county community, the Girl Scouts organization numbers nearly 500 members.

It fulfills the purpose of one facet of the community in this way: through group endeavor in the making of common things, it teaches the all-important and increasingly difficult lesson:

"How to live with your neighbor."

This education, which includes girls from every section of the community and embraces the many elements of our society, carries on where the home, the school and the family terminate.

Work done by the Girl Scouts organization in this county is carried on largely through funds allotted by the Monroe County Community Chest and Council.

Without these funds, it would be impossible for the scout group to work at its present far-reaching and intensive rate.

Those lessons which go into the teaching of "how to live and work with others" to a young girl may begin when she becomes seven years old or has entered the second grade, in school.

At this time she, or her mother, calls the Girl Scout house on Sarah St. and talks to Mrs. Camille Harvey, executive secretary of the Monroe County organization.

It isn't always possible for a girl to enter scouting immediately. There are certain limitations—none of which have anything to do with the girl herself.

If she is seven or in the second grade, she may be accepted.

Truman, Fine Praise Part Played By Nation's Press

Harrisburg, (AP) — President Truman said yesterday American newspapers have "an unsurpassed opportunity" to serve their country in giving the facts of this year's political campaign.

"This is an election year," he said. "Probably at no other time do citizens need more exact and truthful information."

Then he went on in a letter to Theodore A. Serrill, chairman of National Newspaper Week and general manager of the Pennsylvania Newspaper Publishers Assn:

"An intelligent voter wants facts, not misrepresentation. This gives our newspapers an unsurpassed opportunity to serve their country by supplying accurate and unbiased information so that their readers can be prepared for the choices they must make in November."

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Republican presidential nominee, said he would resist all attempts at "news suppression and censorship."

"Unless actual and real national security is involved, the flow of all news—and particularly concerning the affairs of our government—must be kept full and free," his message said.

"Your Right to Know—a Constitutional Guarantee"—is a most appropriate theme for this year's celebration of National Newspaper Week. It is a right which each of us cherishes and respects and must protect."

The statement from Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson, Democratic candidate for president, said the newspaper week observance is "a timely reminder of the indispensable role of the press in a free society."

The Judiciary branch, he said, relies on the newspaper to curb any excess of power by the executive and legislative branches.

"The newspaper, however, in its more intimate relationship to the people and its vaster facilities for the publication of facts, constitutes the greatest single influence in discouraging and correcting derelictions of duty and violations of public trust."

Gov. John S. Fine led Pennsylvanians in lauding the American press and said in a statement:

"Never has it been more necessary for the clear light of truth to be shed on those conditions and events which face us as a people on the foreign and domestic scene. Never, I feel, have the newspapers of our country labored more sincerely to give us the facts."

"When the free press of America is compared with the shackled press which circulates the official lies and propaganda behind the Iron Curtain, we are able to contrast our benefits as a people with those of folk groping in darkness and in that darkness, consenting to incredible crimes against humanity," Fine said.

The action came after Albert Coons, Lebanon, a member of Fine's tax advisory committee, urged support of the long-disputed flat income tax over the other two sources. The income tax measure was not mentioned in the association's tax resolution.

Both levies were mentioned as possible sources for more than 100 million dollars in new taxes expected to be asked by Gov. John S. Fine of the 1953 General Assembly.

Incode! Hopes To Head Off State Delay

In an attempt to head off any changes that might be proposed by the special Water Resources Committee appointed by Gov. John S. Fine to delve into the prepared program for upper Delaware River basin, calling for a series of four large reservoirs, the Interstate Commission on the Delaware River Basin yesterday named a committee to meet with the state group.

The finding of Gov. Fine's special committee is expected to be released late this year and Incode! officials, meeting at Pocono Manor, made known their intentions to arrange a hearing before that report is made public.

Appointed by James Allen, executive secretary, to confer with the Governor's group are Elisha T. Barrett, New York; Warren N. Gaffney, New Jersey; and Clayton M. Hoff, Delaware, heads of the interstate cooperation agencies on Incode!.

Pennsylvania's plans were expected to be uncovered Monday when the session opened. But the state had no official representation at the session when Andrew J. Sordani, state secretary of the Department of Commerce, cancelled his appearance on the program without any explanation.

Incode!, with approval for building the four reservoirs already sanctioned by New Jersey, New York and Delaware, is awaiting the green light from Pennsylvania to proceed with its plans.

Aside from providing for properly controlled recreation guaranteeing public access to the new facilities, Pitkin said the plan would have many other advantages. As an example, he said it would prevent the area from being spoiled by undesirable development and exploited for commercial and speculative purposes.

Pitkin added he felt that some of the other essential features could be extended into the area bordering between Delaware Water Gap and Trenton, N.J. "There would appear to be many opportunities for integration of the recreational program of Pennsylvania and new areas along this stretch of river," Pitkin concluded.

Both levies were mentioned as possible sources for more than 100 million dollars in new taxes expected to be asked by Gov. John S. Fine of the 1953 General Assembly.

Plan Covers Strips Around Reservoirs

Efforts to make the upper Delaware Basin "one of the finest recreational areas in the United States" will receive the concentrated backing of the Interstate Commission on the Delaware River Basin (Incode!), it was decided yesterday afternoon.

Development of a program to span the next 12 months met the approval of the commission following their conference at Pocono Manor. "At a special business session called by Chairman Francis A. Pitkin, representatives of Incode! outlined a plan to have the states of Pennsylvania, New Jersey and New York cooperate in promoting the site for recreation."

Pitkin, in announcing the commission's intention, said "Our eyes have been opened by the reports on recreation given by the panel members on this morning's conference session. Until we hear Charles B. Seib's report, none of us realized the value of property bordering on Lake Wallenpaupack."

Seib, Allentown consulting civil engineer, disclosed real estate values in the section increased from $250,000 to over $9,000,000 since the construction of the reservoir in 1926. Pitkin added "Lake Wallenpaupack is an example of a man-made lake right here in the Delaware basin that has paid handsome dividends in the form of recreation, without public participation or control of any form."

Active participation of governmental agencies responsible for state parks is Incode!'s opinion of attaining the objective, Pitkin stated. As envisioned by Pitkin, the plan would require the acquisition of strips of land around any reservoirs which may be constructed in the future in the Upper Delaware River basin. These lands, Pitkin said, would be developed and administered on a co-operative basis as part of an interstate park system by the state park authorities and other state agencies of Pennsylvania, New Jersey and New York. And all recreational facilities on both land and water, irrespective of the state in which they may be located, would be operated on a reciprocal basis and made available to the citizens of the three states.

Fishing and hunting programs also would be incorporated, Pitkin said, as a cooperative venture by the fish and game commissions of the three states.

Aside from providing for properly controlled recreation guaranteeing public access to the new facilities, Pitkin said the plan would have many other advantages. As an example, he said it would prevent the area from being spoiled by undesirable development and exploited for commercial and speculative purposes.

28th Division Stages Rhine Exercises

Along The Rhine River, Germany — The 28th Infantry Division, under the command of Maj. Gen. Daniel B. Strickler, battled its way across the Rhine River to set up beach-heads in the large scale three-day maneuver, "Exercise Equinox."

Utilizing a joint operation of French and American forces, the exercise according to maneuver officials, was to study "the end of a delaying action, defensive action behind a large breakthrough, and a combination of airborne and armored actions to counter a beach-head."

With Keystone acting as "aggressors," a bird's eye view of the battle-lines showed 28th Division forces stretched for a point just below Mannheim to Karlsruhe in a North-South front parallel to the Rhine. The southern forces, the 110th Regiment maintained contact with the allied French Fourth Division, while to the North, the 109th Infantry took up positions of attack. Men of the 112th dug in behind the battleline as a division reserve.

At the maneuver's conclusion, General Strickler said, "It was a pleasure to observe the results of months of hard training here in Germany. The men of the 28th knew what to do at the right time and they did it well. That can only come through understanding of one's job."

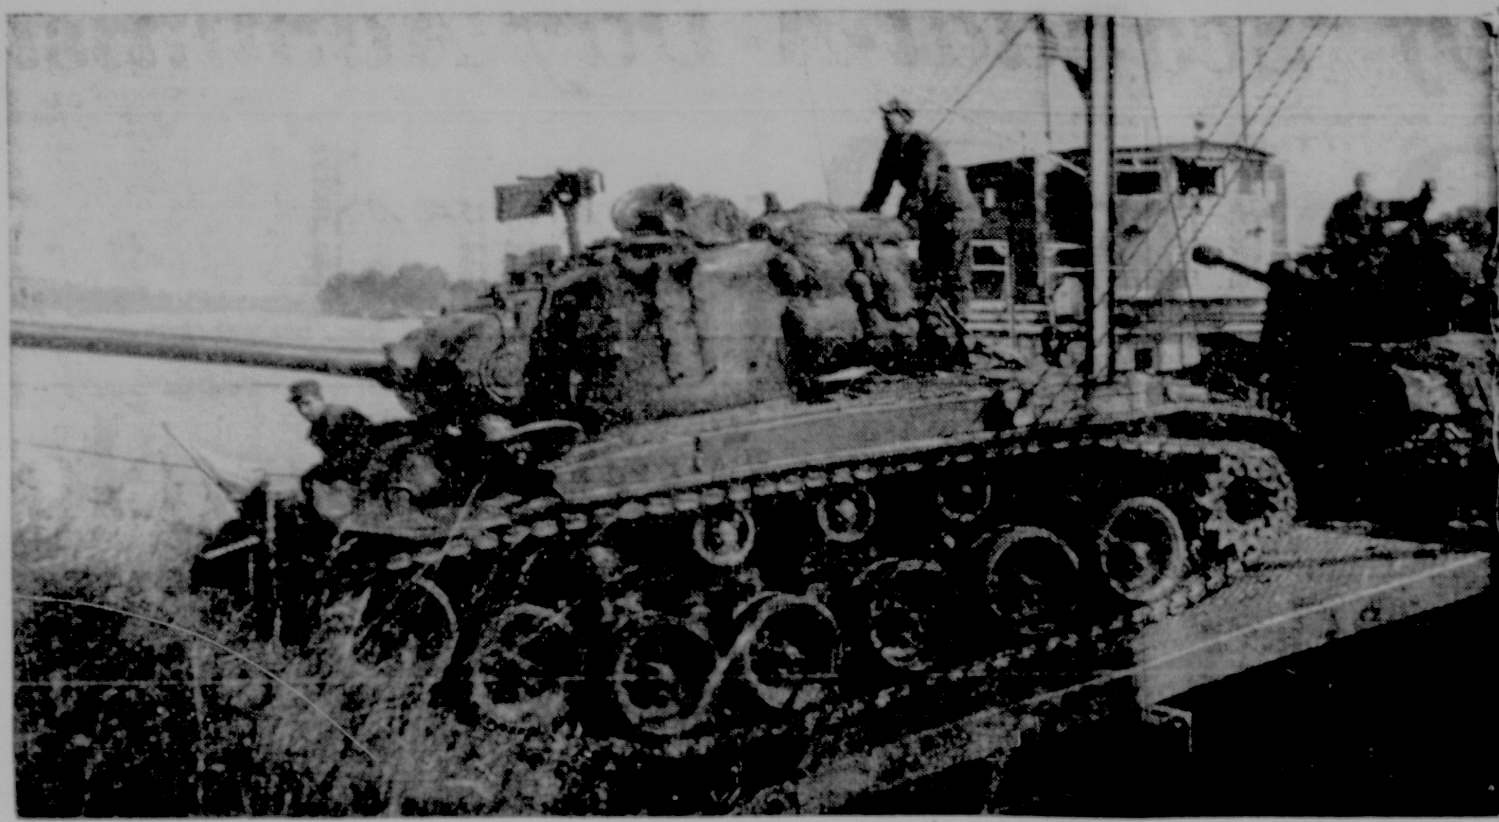

At 0300 the first morning steel helmeted men with blackened faces scrambled on jeeps mounted with 50 cal machine guns for the first phase of action. These combat patrols were dispatched to make contact with the "enemy force."

Switches were thrown on giant engines at 0445 that morning and task forces of tanks from both the 109th and 110th Combat Teams smashed into the outposts of the enemy. From that time until the end of the maneuver, the roads of hundreds of small villages in Germany were filled with the roar of engines, and the steady beat of combat boots. The 28th Infantry Division moved into battle.

Quiet towns no bigger than 40 houses, and with names like Schoenberg and Grafhausen, saw steady streams of tanks, with long muzzles of guns pointed skyward... men carrying mortars, machine guns and M-1 rifles... half tracks spouting anti-aircraft defense... and 2½ ton trucks bundled with boxes of food rations.

This concentrated effort of men and machines hammered at the defenses of the enemy. Finally the battle lines of the rifle companies gave way under the fire power of their opponents and the constant hammering of simulated artillery shells. The enemy raced back into new positions of defense. The Combat Teams of the 28th still probed with patrols, and still steadily hit them with attack. Again the enemy moved back.

The general, directing the maneuver from the Division command post, and making visits to the Regiments on the line, was also host to top ranking officers of Armies of the NATO forces. Officers of the French, British, and Danish Armies were attached to Division Headquarters during the entire maneuver. The chairman of the Joint Army Chief of Staff, Gen. Omar N. Bradley, and Gen. J.

A TANK RUMBLES DOWN the landing platform of a Navy tender on the west bank of the Rhine River in Germany after the 28th Infantry Division chased the "enemy" across.

Lawton Collins separately inspected the operations of the 28th. French Gen. Rene Bertrand, Assistant Commander of NATO Forces in Southern Europe, and Maj. General Dahlquist, Commander of V Corps, and Maj. Gen. Burres, commander of VII Corps were also some of the many visitors to the 28th.

When the enemy was finally pushed back to the banks of the Rhine River, resistance became the strongest and the 28th called for increased artillery and air support hoping to flush them from their fox holes and gun emplacements. The battle became stymied for almost a day.

The final morning, the Division was subject to a counterattack, but held its position firm. Through the dreary drizzle of a fall rain came a new plan of attack and at 0730 the first blow was struck by the French in the South. Parachutists of the French 25th Airborne Division hit the silk and seriously threatened the enemy defenses on the left flank. Then in a surprising and powerful move, the entire 112th Infantry Regiment, until then held in reserve, moved in to the north positions, and smashed at the front lines of the enemy. The defenses weakened and gave in.

The 28th Infantry Division shot across the Rhine River in Army ducks, Navy LST's, and pontoon boats.

At noon the day of this attack, the umpires of Maneuver Director Headquarters called the maneuver to a halt. General Strickler's "Keystones" had moved 25 miles to the Rhine, crossed it and entrenched themselves in positions on the West Bank.

Eight years ago, in September, 1944, other troops of the 28th crossed the Our River, west of the

Student Group To Conduct Chest Drive

The East Stroudsburg High School student council yesterday accepted responsibility for conducting the Community Chest drive for contributions in that school this year.

In passing its resolution to take on full responsibility for the drive student council members voted to hold a complete organizational meeting this Friday to set up a schedule for contributions and a plan for indoctrination of the student body on the subject of Chest participation.

A decision to hold regular meetings on Tuesdays and Fridays was passed by the members. Time for the meetings was set at 12:15 p. m.

In another action, the council voted to cooperate with the Youth Center at the George N. Kemp Post, American Legion, which will begin operation sometime during the next month, on the sale of tags in an effort to secure funds for the center's operation.

The youth center operated last year on a purely non-profit basis with the only admission charged being that of the initial membership in the organization.

SPEED is the Killer!

More than 5,000 children under 14 were killed or maimed on Pennsylvania's streets and highways last year.

Nearly all these children could have been saved from death or crippling injury BY LESS SPEED ON THE PART OF DRIVERS.

School zones are clearly marked. The signs are a command to drivers to SLOW DOWN TO A SPEED THAT WILL ENABLE THEM TO RETAIN CONTROL IN CASE OF EMERGENCY.

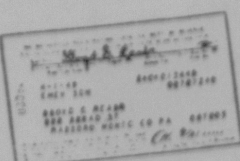

A YOUNGSTER SOMETIMES APPEARS ON THE ROAD AHEAD JUST AS FROM NOWHERE. EVEN IF YOU ARE TRAVELING SLOWLY, IF YOU RUN OVER THAT CHILD, YOU WERE GOING TOO FAST! DON'T LEARN THIS LESSON BY BITTER TRAGEDY!

Drive well within posted speed limits. Pennsylvania strictly enforces its speed laws.

You can cooperate with us by following the best traffic rule of all—The Golden Rule. Take time to keep our children safe.

Be Ready! Give Generously!

The 1952 Community Chest campaign raises its annual challenge to every resident of Monroe County today.

This year's fund raising effort—now in full operation except for county and residential campaigning which starts October 9—is to be swift.

One of the ablest and largest organizations ever assembled will cover every individual in industry, trade, professional, resort, public service, organizations and finally through contacts at every residence.

As taxpayers, they are insuring a status-quo in their local tax rates by giving generously to the Community Chest fund which helps keep ten agencies functioning to handle the health, social and welfare problems of this community.

If, suddenly, the work of these agencies were removed, the burden of meeting the health, social and welfare problems would be thrust on municipal bodies which are already seriously hampered by a taxation famine.

You and each of you are obligated to be generous and prompt in your contribution to the 1952 Community Chest Fund. Be ready when the Chest worker makes his or her contact. Make sure these ten agencies function to protect your tax dollar in Monroe County.

Newspaper Week

Today marks the beginning of National Newspaper Week. It is the result of an idea that had its origin in Pennsylvania. The earlier observances were under the title Newspaper Prestige Week. At no time since it was instituted in 1932 has the observance had greater importance. Ninety-six, out of every 100 Americans read the daily paper, the sole reading matter of many, their chief source of information on current history at home and abroad—what people are doing and thinking, for that is the way history is made.

The fact has often been stated "that your right to know . . . a constitutional guarantee" is not simply the publisher's, the editor's or the reporter's right to know, but it is principally the newspaper reader's, the citizen's right to know.

This gives great point to the uneasiness which has been expressed in recent months over attempts that have been made here and there in the United States to withhold public information from the press or to muzzle individual newspapers that have dared to discuss tax frauds, in one instance involving a federal judge, or which have dared to print the truth about gambling and vice. In one instance a newspaper got into trouble because it told the truth about traffic cases. In a few states bills have been introduced in recent years to gag the press.

Newspaper Week is more than an occasion to remind readers of the place of the newspaper in public life. It is more than an invitation to the newspapers to indulge in healthful introspection with a regard to how the newspaper might play an even more useful role than it does in the community life. It can well be a checking-up period for the press on its freedom at home as well as abroad. This year's slogan is "Your newspaper lights the way to freedom."

Argentina's La Prensa is still shut down and Bill Oatis, AP writer, is still in a Czechoslovakian prison cell as this is written. We have the same principle of suppression involved whenever bodies such as school boards and councils insist on secret meetings, or whenever public officials conceal information which the public is entitled to have.

These Days - - By George E. Sokolsky

TO RECAPITULATE

Since 1933, when the United States recognized Soviet Russia, the infiltration into our government by Communist agents and emissaries has been a major political issue. There is no hind sight about this: a voluminous, factual attack has been constant since 1917 when the Bolsheviks took over Russia.

The year following recognition, the Harold Ware cell (1934) was organized in Washington, consisting of bright young men, mostly from the Harvard Law School, whose object it was to gain important positions affecting government policy on behalf of Soviet Russia and international Communism. They found it easy to enter the AAA in the Department of Agriculture, then presided over by Henry Wallace. (I must say, in justice, that when Wallace discovered the nature of this cabal, he booted the gang out of his department.)

Subsequently, this Harold Ware group found its way from the AAA into other government activities, to the National Labor Relations Board, the Treasury, the State Department, etc. Lee Pressman, for instance, wrote the Wagner Act, which established the National Labor Relations Board of which Nathan Witt became secretary and practically the head man. Witt's associate in Communist activity, Lee Pressman, became counsel for the newly formed C. I. O. Pressman and Witt worked together, so that a government agency dealing with labor matters and a national labor union favored by that agency were joined together through the cooperation of two Communists.

The LaFollette Committee was loaded with members of the Harold Ware cell who served as investigators, researchers and counsel. This committee so slanted an investigation as to provide the Communists with the data they required for their propaganda against American capitalism.

Other members of this group, because of their abilities, such as Alger Hiss, Henry Collins, Chas. Kramer, Harry Dexter White, came to the fore and were forced exposed.

The Administration cannot claim that it was without data on the subject. It has always had the reports of the FBI, an agency that from the first recognized the Communist menace. Neither President Roosevelt nor President Truman availed himself fully of FBI facilities on this subject. To this must be added the intelligence reports of Army, Navy and State Departments prior to the Marshall-Acheson regime. Finally, there were many books, magazine and newspaper articles, some written by Communists, others by Anti-Communists since 1918.

In 1939, Whittaker Chambers exposed actual espionage to Adolf Berle, who informed Dean Acheson and President Roosevelt of the accusation that Alger Hiss, already a high State Department official, was a Russian spy. Hiss was promoted to higher office subsequent to the accusation and was Roosevelt's Far Eastern expert at Yalta.

On October 28, 1946, Prime Minister MacKenzie King of Canada came to Washington with the data uncovered at the Canadian Spy Ring investigation. King gave to President Truman data on the American side of the espionage. Nothing happened.

Meanwhile, the House Committee on Un-American Activities, organized in 1938, was month after month providing items which when taken together have produced the pattern of Communist infiltration into the lives of our people.

The "Amerasia" case, involving a vast amount of classified secret documents (over 1700), taken from the files of military intelligence, naval intelligence, Bureau of Censorship, British intelligence, The OSS and the State Department, was one of the most brazen acts of espionage yet developed. On March 11, 1943, the "Amerasia" headquarters were searched and the documents found. Involved were Philip Jaffe, Kate Mitchell, Mark Gayn, John S. Service, Lieut. Andrew Roth and Emmanuel S. Larson.

After Alger Hiss was convicted, it was impossible to disregard the "Amerasia" case. A Senatorial committee, headed by Senator Millard Tydings, was appointed to investigate, in particular, charges made by Senator Joe McCarthy on Communist infiltration into the State Department. At first, Senator Tydings seemed to be anxious to do a thorough job. However, political exigencies drove him to the whitewash pall.

Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., said of the Tydings Committee, of which he was a member: "The investigation must be set down as superficial and inconclusive. The proceedings often lacked impartiality; the atmosphere was too often not that of seeking to ascertain the truth. The subcommittee's record is a tangle of loose threads, of witnesses who were not subpoenaed, of leads which were not followed up."

Much more can be written in recapitulation, but there is no space here, except to say that under both President Roosevelt and President Truman, Communists flourished in our government.

Washington Report

—by Fulton Lewis, Jr.

Washington — Political slush funds are far from new. In one form or another, politicians have been gathering in money on the sidelines. Frequently, their ultimate embarrassment, even since this country was established. They probably will continue to do so far into the future.

Most people nowadays know about the eyebrow-lifting activities of Harry Truman and his cohorts. A good many people still remember the 1928 deal whereby John Jacob Raskob, then chairman of the Democratic National Committee, and a group of wealthy friends, picked up the tab for a $250,000 note owed to the Warm Springs Foundation by one Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Al Smith, the Democratic presidential nominee that year, wanted FDR to make the race for the governorship of New York. Roosevelt at first refused, saying he had to meet the Warm Springs debt and that he therefore could not afford to get into politics. Smith prevailed on Raskob and Co. to wipe out this objection in the manner stated.

Going back quite a bit further, there's another case about which few people remember much, if anything. For Daniel Webster has gone down in history as one of the nation's all-time outstanding orators, a respected legislator, a great statesman. But Webster had his troubles, too—financial ones.

Like a certain young Californian named Nixon, Daniel Webster was an imprudent gentleman with no financial backlog on which he could draw while in public life. Like Mr. Roosevelt but unlike Senator Nixon, Webster used his position and reputation as a lure to bring in cash for his own personal use.

The story involves an active law practice in which Webster made frequent appearances before the Supreme Court, acted as attorney for the Bank of the United States, and even allowed friends and political supporters to supplement his government income with cash contributions, while a member of the Senate.

This opus is not in the slightest degree any effort to detract from the great reputation of Daniel Webster. The story is in all his biographies. For the sake of simplicity, I'll quote the story as told in the two-volume work, "Daniel Webster," by Claude Moore Fuess.

"Webster," says Mr. Fuess, "allowed his accounts with business firms to run not only for months but for years, and his relations with banks were usually very complicated . . . at the Astor House in New York, and at the Revere House in Boston, he rarely paid for room or meals, and the managers were accustomed to charge his bills off to good advertising. He borrowed money for casual expenses from his friends, who, proud of their intimacy with him, were unwilling, in most cases, to remind him of the obligations."

In 1846, Webster had been in private life for a matter of months when a group of friends sought to persuade him to return to the Senate. He said no, that he could not afford it. However, he changed his mind after the friends raised a $37,000 kitty and arranged to have the income paid to him semi-annually.

Webster's relations with the Bank of the United States, which he upheld in Congress as well as in the courts, were not confined to that of attorney and client. They covered the field of debtor and creditor, too.

"That Webster himself," says Mr. Fuess, "frequently took advantage of the facilities of the bank by borrowing money from it, is indisputable. . . . The Washington Globe asserted, on August 23, 1852, without eliciting a denial from Webster, that the latter was, at the time, responsible at the Boston branch for $22,000 and at the Central Bank for $10,000."

I might point out that 120 years ago, $32,000 was worth several times what it is today. It was a sizeable sum.

The Fuess book quotes documents showing that despite the press of official business while he was a member of the Senate, Webster's income from his private law practice was considerable. For example, it amounted to $13,000, $15,000 and $21,000 respectively for the three years beginning with 1834. His biggest fee during this period was $7,500 for arguing successfully before the Supreme Court, as counsel for the City of New Orleans, that a certain strip of land belonged to the city rather than the United States.

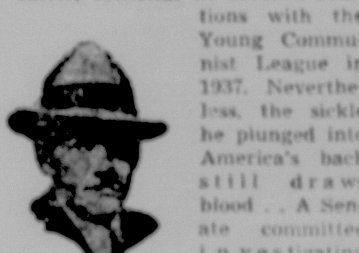

Webster became Secretary of State, for a second time in 1850. But, says Mr. Fuess, he accepted the post only "with a distinct understanding . . . that money should be provided for his urgent needs."

Actually, of course, there is no parallel between the Webster case and the Dick Nixon case. Webster used his extra-curricular funds, apparently without the slightest compunction, for strictly personal affairs. Nixon has used his fund entirely for strictly legitimate political activities, not one cent of it for personal affairs.

On Broadway

—by Walter Winchell

MEMOS TO THE FBI
J. Wechsler, the N. Y. Post editor, contends he severed relations with the Young Communist League in 1937. Nevertheless, the sickle he plunged into America's back still draws blood. . . . A Senate committee is investigating Communist tactics on June 12, 1951, disclosed a list of books approved by Red-front propagandists here. "Revolt on the Campus" is on the Communist list. It was authored by J. Wechsler.

Has that author publicly condemned the Reds distributing his book? Has he taken any effective legal action to halt its circulation? As far as we know—no! The venomous words of an alleged former Communist continue infecting the nation.

When Wechsler maligns Americans he prefaces: "Since he has so much power we should know all about his background." And since the Cospost editor is currently engaged in mapping Stevenson's campaign strategy the following has the most ominous implications. If Adlai is elected this "former Communist" could exert tremendous influence on the course of U. S. foreign affairs.

In 1940 Wechsler wrote: "A large degree of preparedness was accepted by isolationists and interventionists alike before World War II was under way. The point is not whether preparedness was unnecessary; the point is that few dared to ask for what we were preparing, and how much preparation was therefore required. Senator LaFollette might raise such an inquiry, but his voice seemed puny beside that of Walter Winchell, who saw invasion looming on every side."

It is hardly necessary to note that (prior to World War II) most isolationists endeavored to block FDR's rearmament program. More significant is evidence of Wechsler's disgraceful consistency. He scorned Walter Winchell's warnings about the Nazi peril. But a dozen years later he condemned us for alerting the nation to dangers represented by the Soviet Union.

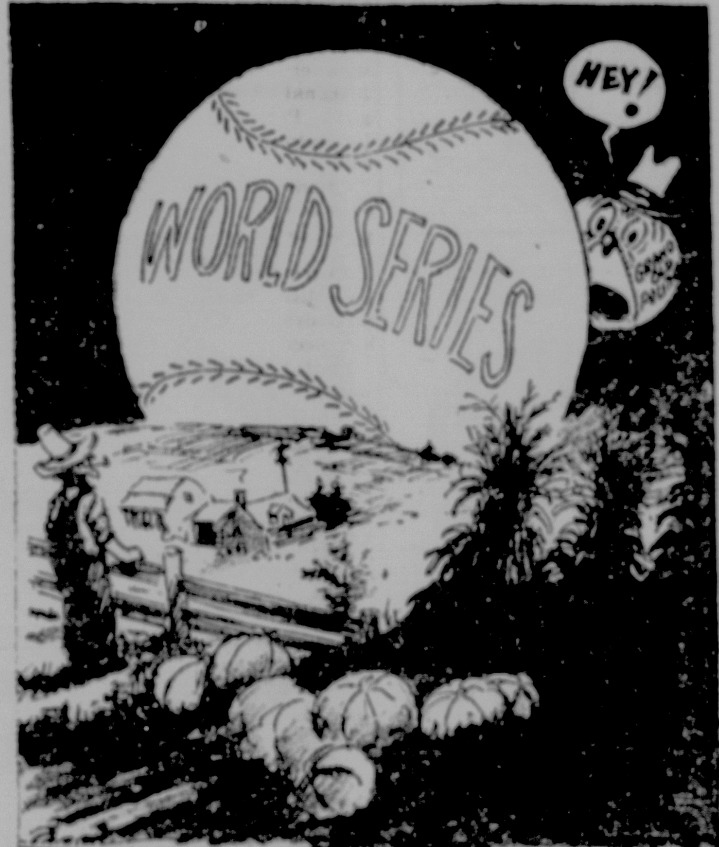

At the time when Franklin Roosevelt was desperately striving to unite the nation against Nazism a book was published in 1940 titled "War Propaganda and the United States," co-authored by J. Wechsler. It accused FDR of "intensifying fear and excitement." Wechsler declared: "An isolationist President might have failed to announce the presence of German submarines near these shores; Mr. Roosevelt did, although their presence was never actually confirmed. . . . Whatever the nature of Mr. Roosevelt's sources, the fact remains that the stories were admittedly unconfirmed. They were part of the 'propaganda of excitement' that stemmed from Washington."

Thus Wechsler challenged FDR's veracity and charged him with creating fear and excitement. Simultaneously, Goebbels' wind-machines were producing similar accusations minus Wechsler's not-so-subtle phrase, Berlin mouthpiece called FDR a liar and warmonger.

Ironically, Wechsler carelessly labels this FDR devotee a "Republican" while the "former Communist" counsel is eagerly accepted by the Democratic candidate!

Another revealing excerpt from "War Propaganda and the United States": "When Roosevelt described the democracies as peace-

PARTIAL ECLIPSE

Looking At Life —by Erich Brandeis

In these days of mud slinging, vituperation and name calling, it does a fellow good to find out that there is still some milk of human kindness left in this world and that people are still people.

Take the experience of Mrs. Bertha Romano, manager of a chain candy store in New York City.

A man came into her store some time in July and said: "This is a stick-up." He had his hand in his pocket so Mrs. Romano took it for granted that he was pointing a gun at her.

The fellow was well dressed and soft-spoken and did not look at all like the hold-up men and gangsters she had seen on television.

And Mrs. Romano is a motherly looking sort of a woman. Apparently the hold-up man thought so, too, because after looking her in the eye he said: "No, I can't do it."

Then he told her that he was out of work and needed $30 for his room rent. Would she loan him the money? He'd be sure to send it back in 30 days.

There was $30 in the till but $30 was all the hold-up man wanted.

So she gave it to him on a chance that he'd keep his promise.

The 30 days were up and nothing came from the fellow.

loving nations, he plainly implied that Japan, Italy and Germany—and after the Nazi pact, Russia—were warmakers. Sometimes he used images that seemed deliberately suggestive: "Do we really have to assume," he asked in the Spring of 1939, "that nations can find no better ways of realizing their destinies than those which were used by the Huns and Vandals fifteen hundred years ago?" To most Americans "Huns" recalled 1917. Similarly, he compared the isolationist with the "ostrich." Who wants to emulate the "ostrich"? Mr. Roosevelt was for "democracy." He was against "dictatorship."

Wechsler put the words democracy and dictatorship in quotes—thus indicating doubt about FDR's devotion to one and opposition to the other. He also mocked Roosevelt for declaring Nazis were Huns and isolationists were ostriches. Significantly, he was not very happy about FDR branding Germany, Italy, Japan and Russia as warmakers.

Jupiter reflects about 44 per cent of the sunlight which falls upon it.

She had told her employer and several of her friends and associates about the deal.

When the month was up they were kidding the life out of her and she began to feel like a darn fool.

But ten days later a letter arrived at her store.

In it were five singles, one five and two ten dollar bills and this note:

"Here is the $30 I borrowed from you for my room rent when I needed it so badly. I am sorry that I could not send it back sooner."

"God bless you and the company for the helping hand."

Mrs. Romano made a lengthy statement to the press. I won't quote it all.

But here are a few words that all of us might well remember:

If more people took the attitude that maybe a fellow needs help, then maybe there'd be less shooting."

That, it seems to me, applies not only to a situation when a hold-up man confronts you, but to life in general.

Maybe lots of things people do are done because they need help.

There ARE people, of course, who are criminals by inclination. The place for them—until we find something better—is prison.

But many others have their choice between crime and starvation. So they take their chance. Starvation ALWAYS kills. But with crime they MAY, at least, get by.

Perhaps this hold-up man had tried his darndest to get a few dollars together to pay his rent. Perhaps he had gone for days looking for a job. Perhaps he was desperate.

The police were wary when Mrs. Romano expressed her confidence in humans in general. "Careful now," they said, "or you'll have every thing in town coming in for a short loan."

It's a good thing that the Man who said: "If you have done it to the least of them you have done it to me," wasn't a policeman.

The popular term "chow," as applied by American soldiers to their food, originated in the Philippines.

The termite is the world's most reproductive insect. It lays 80,000 eggs a day.

Book Of The Ages
In an era of new cocktails, new nightclubs, new crime techniques, whodunits and a revision of just about everything that influences the life and customs of human beings, there is something sensational in the development of this week the world gets two "new" (or revised) Bibles. Both the Protestants and the Roman Catholic church have made the announcement. The first and immediate effect is that the Good Book makes the newspaper headlines in a big way and gets a publicity break usually reserved for the books that in importance rate with the Bible about the way a leak in a kitchen pipe compares with the river of life.

The Bible has more vitamins, does more for your health, keeps people more fit and gives more folks greater comfort than all the heavily advertised products on earth, and we are glad to see it get some big-time advertising. The Book of the Ages becomes a Book of the Month. Ninety-one scholars have worked fifteen years modernizing the King James version for the Protestant Churches of Christ in America, and

The Daily Record's Home And Building Page

THE ADRIAN is a story and a half building without basement, but equipped with a centrally located alcove for heating plant, a utility room for laundry and storage, a shower bath on the first floor and tub bath on the second. There are three bedrooms, one on the first floor, which can be used as a study or den, and two on the second. One advantage of this plan is the fact that the first floor is self-sufficient and the second floor rooms can be finished off in the future. The galley-type kitchen has cabinets on opposite walls, with sink under the window, allowing ample dining space. There is a total of seven closets and attic storage. Exterior finish is planned to be of wide siding and asphalt shingles. Overall dimensions are 30 feet by 30 feet. Area is 860 square feet, while cubage is 12,780. For further information about The Adrian, write the Small House Planning Bureau, St. Cloud, Minn. In Canada, the Small House Planning Bureau of Canada, Box 1193, St. John's, New Brunswick.

Questions And Answers

The woodwork in my bathroom is painted green and the floor covering is black and white. What colors would you suggest for wallpaper, curtains and rug?

G.W.F.
For the wallpaper I suggest a sailboat and lighthouse pattern in red, gray and green on a white background; for the curtains and rug, red.

My young son's bedroom is painted light blue with the woodwork and ceiling ivory. What kind and color draperies and bedspread would you suggest? The rug is dark blue and the furniture is maple. What else could I use to make it look more like a child's room?

S.P.H.
For the draperies I suggest a cowboy pattern on a yellow background; for the bedspread, maroon corduroy. You might add a toy chest and shelves to hold his books and games.

Using draw draperies in both living room and dining room. I would like to use cornices to cover the traverse rods. The woodwork is stained a light oak. Would it be correct to have the cornices painted ivory?

F.E.
Paint the cornices to match the walls or the same shade of one of the colors in the drapery fabric.

Wallpaper in a living room has a light gray background with a small wine colored feather through it. The woodwork is off-white. What colors would be good for a three piece living room set, rug and draperies?

C.G.
I suggest the following: Sofa, wine; lounge chair, green; wing or barrel chair, gold; rug, gray; draperies, green.

I have a modern living room and would appreciate advice as to what to use for draperies—plain, stripe or a floral pattern? The walls are gray, the furniture brown with one green lounge chair. What colors would you suggest for shades for two lamps?

S.D.
Since the walls are plain, I think that a floral pattern would be nice for the draperies. I suggest a bold pattern in red, green, gray and yellow on a chartreuse background. For the lamp shades I suggest deep red and yellow.

Cupboard Dresses Up A Corner

Many a dining room can be dressed up at relatively low cost by installing corner cupboards.

A single cupboard looks well and serves well in some dining spaces. Often such a treatment makes it possible to create an attractive dinette in a large kitchen with space otherwise going to waste or at least not being used to best advantage.

Supplements Wall Cabinet

Such cabinets may be used for storing china and glass, thus to supplement wall cabinet space available in the kitchen. Or they may be largely decorative, containing a few pieces for display.

These cabinets may be had with or without doors, and the door may have solid wood panels or glass. Home owners have a choice too, of cabinets that have an open shelf useful for serving purposes where space is at a premium—between the upper doors and the storage space beneath.

A drawer is available in some styles, separating the upper shelves from the space comprised in the part of the cabinet resting on the floor.

Some Prefer Open Shelves

Occasionally owners prefer open shelves. Such cabinets will not be found entirely satisfactory if installed in kitchens where grease and smoke can come to rest directly on china and glassware.

How To Repair Concrete Floor

Cracks in a concrete floor may be caused by improper construction, undue strain or settlement of the supporting structure. Best way to repair is to refinish the floor with a 2-inch layer of new concrete.

Before new concrete is poured, the dry floor should be roughened, cleaned and wetted and cement-sand grout (one part cement to two parts sand by volume) scrubbed in to form a bond. In the event of seepage, either a bituminous coating or membrane waterproofing should be applied to the old floor surface before new cement is poured.

The new layer of concrete should be reinforced by light-weight steel mesh, not lighter than No. 14 gauge, placed in the middle. Floor should be kept moist for at least three days to prevent cracking.

Keep Water Right

New types of mixing valves are available for showers over the bathtub or in separate compartments. These valves maintain any temperature desired regardless of fluctuating pressure in the hot or cold water supply lines.

ly on china and glassware.

Cabinets are available in many sizes and types. They can be secured ready for painting or staining to meet exacting requirements of householders, or they can be obtained finished in knotty pine waxed treatments, maple, walnut, mahogany, or otherwise.

Buy Lamps With Care, Say Experts

Consider more than looks and price when shopping for floor or table lamps, home advisors of the Rural Electrification Administration, U. S. Department of Agriculture suggest. Any lamp that will be used for reading, studying, sewing or other close work needs to be constructed to give plenty of clear, soft, glareless light.

For a good buy look for these features:
SIZE. Be sure the lamp is tall enough and has a shade wide enough at the bottom to spread a wide circle of light and allow for sitting up comfortably while reading.

RULER. Lamps equipped for three-light bulbs are most useful because the light can be adjusted to suit different needs.

SHADE. Select shades wide at the bottom, deep enough to conceal the diffusing bowl and with a white lining to reflect light. A white or ivory shade gives about 50 per cent more light than a dark shade which absorbs and thus wastes light. Many people like

Double the TITE-ON Roof

The house in the above photo was blown more than three feet off its foundation by a mid-west tornado—yet not one Ruberoid Tite-On Shingle came loose!

Every storm brings new evidence of Tite-On's windproof superiority. The secret: Each Tite-On Shingle interlocks with adjacent shingles at four points and is anchored by concealed nails at four points. Assembled, they make virtually a one-piece roof. Ruberoid Tite-On overlap to form two complete shingle layers—double protection, double insulation! They're easy to apply quickly. Come in and see samples, today!

Let us show you how Tite-On Shingles lock together so securely that, even without nails, they don't come apart! This view shows under side of shingles.

Choose Lighter Color Of Paint

When you're choosing or tinting a color with which to paint your walls, be sure to select a lighter hue than the finished effect you desire. A color that seems exactly right on the color card or on a brushed-out sample will seem much darker when it is used on a large area and when it is reflected by three other wall surfaces.

'BLACK GOLD'

Stock piles of pipes like these are needed for the 1,000 miles of pipe on bottom of the lake.

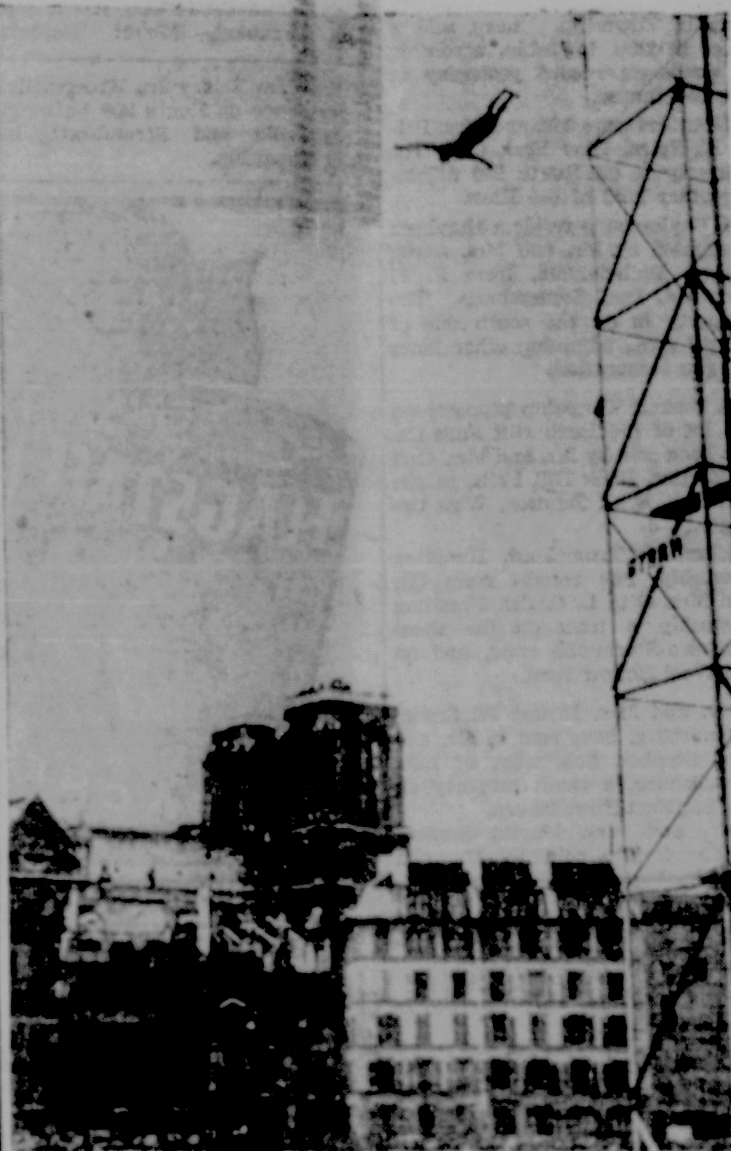

ONE OF THE most strategic spots on earth is Lake Maracaibo, in Venezuela. Known as the world's largest single oil producing area, the lake is turning out more than 1,300,000 barrels of black gold daily, 70 per cent of which is absorbed by the United States to meet vital civilian and defense needs. A million dollars worth of steel derricks and more than 1,000 miles of pipelines bring the oil to "flow stations" on the lake and from there to "tank farms" on the shore. The lake joins the Caribbean by a shallow channel which the government is going to dredge at a cost of $30 million to permit entry of ocean-going tankers. Production of Lake Maracaibo is double that of East Texas fields in the United States.

Workmen repair a break at one of the flow stations in lake. Examining for oil seepage.

Rev. Eaton Speaks At Celebration

As part of the nation-wide celebration of the publication of the Revised Standard version of the Bible, Rev. Harold C. Eaton, pastor of the East Stroudsburg Methodist Church was one of the ministers selected by the National Council of Religious Education, to speak for this celebration. Rev. Eaton received his assignment through the Federal Council of Churches of Rochester, N. Y., and was assigned to speak in Avon, N. Y., last night at a community service representing all the Protestant churches of that community.

Rev. Eaton plans to share the results of his study, and the information available, with the members of the board of education and the workers council of his church school, tonight in the prayer services.

A special invitation has gone out to all the teachers to be present at the mid-week service tonight at 7:30 in the Sunday School auditorium. This version of the scripture is being used in most of the current church school literature used in this church. A cordial invitation is extended to all who are interested in this new publication, to attend this service tonight.

GLF Meets October 6

GLF members in the Stroudsburg area will hold their annual meeting on Monday, October 6, at 8 p. m. in the Municipal Building, Stroudsburg. The meeting plans have been announced by Donald Reish of Stroudsburg, chairman of the Members Committee.

The terms of committeemen Henry Yetter and Elmer Veety, both of Stroudsburg, are expiring at this time, and elections will be held to choose their successors. Other members who will remain on the committee are Omar Michaels of East Stroudsburg, and Orlen Reish and George Reimer, both of Stroudsburg. J. N. Canfield & Son are the local agents.

The meeting will also include reports on GLF's local and over-all operations during the past year. Local entertainment, prizes and refreshments will follow the business meeting.

East Borough High School Organizes Mixed Ensemble Under Miss Bettejo Goodall

Plans for enlarging the vocal music department at East Stroudsburg High School this week moved into high gear with the formation of the school's first "Mixed Ensemble."

The group, which is now in the process of selecting a name for itself, will consist of 15 girls and 12 boys and will be under the direction of Miss Bettejo Goodall, vocal music supervisor at the school.

Miss Goodall yesterday announced the names of those who will work in the group.

Girls who are members of the ensemble are, first sopranos Pearl Barlieb, Nancy Hallett, Elizabeth Klierin, Linda Strunk and Nancy Walters; second sopranos Lois De-trick, Jane Lipe, Myrna Spangler, Jane Slatter and Barbara Wolslay; alto Ruth Cramer, Joan Dowling, Mary Sue Harvey, Pat Hartzell and Reva Heller.

Male singers in the group include first tenors Willard Butz, Bill Cooks and Leroy Davis; second tenors David Brooks, Kenneth Roth and Paul Schlough; baritones Fred Mursch, Harold White and Bill Serfass and basses Bill Dimmick, David Smith and Dick VanWhy.

Miss Goodall will act as accompanist for the ensemble during its appearances throughout the year.

Extra-curricular activities on the part of all three choral groups this year will include several efforts to secure funds for both the school and the department.

Foremost among these will be the sponsorship of the annual Halloween Dance at the school on Oct. 18, Miss Goodall said.

Plans are also being made for a bake sale "sometime soon" which will be handled by members of the vocal music department. Last year the chorus members earned a sizable fund through the sale of cakes "baked to order" for residents of the community and faculty members at the school.

In addition to these two proposals, the department will share

Alice Marie Hartshorn Is Bride Of Charles M. Teada

Miss Alice Marie Hartshorn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Hartshorn, of Henryville, became the bride of Charles Martin Teada, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Teada, Stroudsburg Star Route, Saturday, Sept. 27.

The quiet early Fall wedding was solemnized at the parsonage of the Tannersville Methodist Church at 2 p. m. Rev. Leroy E. Baird, the pastor, officiated.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She was attired in a pink and white dress, ballerina length, with navy blue accessories and wore corsage of pink roses. Her sister, Mrs. Lucille Gittleman, of Stroudsburg RD 3, was matron-of-honor.

Howard Teada, of East Stroudsburg RD 3, acted as best man. The bride's mother wore a navy blue suit as did the bridegroom's mother.

A reception followed at the home of the bridegroom's parents for 18 guests including members of the families. Suitable decorations and wedding cake featured.

The newly wedded couple left later on a trip through the Bear Mountain area, New York State. They will make their home with the bridegroom's parents.

The bride attended the Pocono Township High School and the bridegroom the Stroudsburg High. He is employed at the Patterson-Kelley plant.

Mrs. Henry Is Surprised At Shower

Delaware Water Gap — Mrs. George Henry was honor guest at a surprise cradle shower given by Mrs. Mason Decker of Stroudsburg, and Mrs. Donald Quick, of East Stroudsburg, Wednesday night, Sept. 24. It was held at the home of Mrs. Decker, with whom Mrs. Henry had expected to spend a quiet evening.

When she arrived there, she found many friends waiting her. In attendance were: Mrs. Vincent Henry, Mrs. Shirley Henry, and Mrs. William Fish, of East Stroudsburg; Mrs. Willard Quick, of Stroudsburg; Mrs. Friend Akers, Mrs. Harold Akers, Mrs. Charles Dutt, Mrs. Willard Jennings, Miss Edith Lambert, all of Delaware Water Gap and the hostesses.

When refreshments were served the huge cake was decorated with tiny shoes and umbrellas. The shower umbrella brought a deluge of gifts to Mrs. Henry. Miss Joyce Westbrook, of the Gap, was not able to be present but sent a gift.

E. Swiftwater Aid Will Serve Church Dinner

Swiftwater — At a special meeting of the Reformed Ladies Aid Society of East Swiftwater plans were made for the baked ham dinner to be held this Saturday, October 4, in the church basement.

The menu for the meal is as follows: baked ham, mashed potatoes, gravy, apple sauce, spiced cabbage, corn, carrots, relishes, sliced tomatoes, celery, bread and butter; with apple and pumpkin pie, coffee, tea and milk.

Serving from 5 to 8 p. m., country style, with tickets available at the door. Everyone is cordially invited to come.

A half teaspoon of celery seed is good added to a cup of French dressing.

Give Farewell In Honor Of Mrs. Newton

Delaware Water Gap — The choir of the Presbyterian Church of the Mountain held a birthday party at the home of Alex Bensinger in honor of Mrs. Hubert Newton, Saturday night, September 27.

It is their custom to have the one whose birthday was last celebrated the cake for the next birthday. John Wilson brought the cake this time. Because Mrs. Newton would be leaving the following week for Seattle, Wash., they also permitted ice cream on the menu and it was Elam-Gray-home-made-peach ice cream. The party was a complete surprise to the Newtons.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Casey Drake, Mr. and Mrs. Elam Gray, Mrs. H. J. LaBar, Miss Joyce Westbrook, John Wilson, James Anthony, organist, Mr. and Mrs. Newton and the host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Bensinger.

One entertaining feature of the occasion was a treasure hunt. Mrs. Bensinger gave the Newtons rhymed clues which took them all over inside and outside the home to find clever little gifts that would be useful on their trip West or would entertain small Jonathan.

Pat-Kelley Unit Observe Natal Days Of Members

The Ladies Goodfellowship Auxiliary of the Patterson-Kelley Co. held their monthly meeting at the CLU Club Sunday night. Mrs. Carolyn Altmann presided. The committee report on the recent bake sale held at Cleveland store, East Stroudsburg, said it was very successful. It was decided to hold a Halloween party in connection with the October meeting. A birthday gift was presented to Lillian Stone. The attendance prize went to Elwood Sandt.

Elwood Sandt and Charles Berger were honored on their birthdays.

Following the meeting a table luncheon was served to the Men's Goodfellowship Club by the Auxiliary's committee of arrangements. Myrtle Saxe, Hazel Melvin, Carolina Altmann and Cora Berger.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

One of the words we keep in our pseudo-psychological lingo, which we so dearly love to parade, is "frustrated." But it's a pretty good word to describe most housewives at the close of a bright fall day.

You wake with unlimited ambition and plans of what you're going to accomplish this day. Get the ironing out of the way, tackle those closets in the kitchen, and have everything cleaned up by the time the family comes home—including some sort of a meal that smells good even while it's cooking.

And when dinner time comes with half the ironing basket still full, the clothes you have ironed hanging over chairs, or piled up for mending, the kitchen closet in its state of disarray, and the only smell of cooking the lingering odor of something that boiled over in the oven — well, you're frustrated, to put it mildly.

The trouble is we never take into account the day itself. We don't remember that this is the day our favorite magazine comes, or that just shaking the dust mop can take a half hour when you notice how the ivy had grown this summer and start figuring how you can save it from frost, and worrying about what to do about the poison ivy in the barberry hedge, and just making both preoccupations last as long as possible just for having an excuse to stay outdoors.

And ironing — certainly you don't count on all those telephone calls that came when the iron was just right, and ended when it was either too hot or too cold. Never figured that everything would need buttons, darts, or seams sewn.

Someday I'll get up with the firm resolution that this is the day I'm going to make the bed—and come nightfall, there will be a sense of accomplishment. At least I'll have done what I planned to do.

Bobby Westbrook daily, Monday through Friday, on "The Party Line" WYFO, 10:15 a. m.

Malta Groups Honor Paxtons At Gala Supper

Mr. and Mrs. Elias M. Paxton, 321 Colbert St., Stroudsburg, were guests of honor at a farewell supper served at Malta Temple social rooms last night. St. John's Sisterhood, 46, Dames of Malta, and St. John's Commandery, Knights of Malta, were the sponsors.

The Paxtons are leaving Saturday this week for St. Petersburg, Fla., where they plan to make their future home. Mr. Paxton, a retired rural mail carrier is a past supreme commander of the local unit, also grand and supreme organizer. Mrs. Paxton is a member of numerous civic and fraternal organizations, being active in all of them.

Clifford Kintner, past commander of the Grand Commandery of Pennsylvania, was toastmaster and, on behalf of the sponsors, presented Mr. and Mrs. Paxton with a table lamp.

There were informal remarks on the part of members of both organizations during which the best of good wishes for good health and happiness were extended to Mr. and Mrs. Paxton.

Teleski Twins Are Honored On Birthday

Shirley and Stanley Teleski, twin children of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Teleski were honor guests at a party at their home, 101 Kraemer Ave., Stroudsburg, Monday night, celebrating their eighth birthdays. There were games the prize winners having been Larry Hamill, Bobbie Kresge and Stanley Teleski.

Refreshments were served featured by a three-tier birthday cake and ice cream. The guests of honor were recipients of many gifts. Mrs. Teleski was hostess. Those in attendance were: Jean Kunkle, Gail Silvers, Larry Hamill, Gail Potcher, Junior Kunkle, Karleen Baechtold, Bruce Flory, William Hamill, Jimmie Wildoss, Freddie Pugh, Ronnie VanWhy, Judy and Faye Vaughn, Jimmie, Bobbie, Barbara Kresge, Mary Ann, Nancy, Donald Metzgar and Sharon and Sissy Phillips.

M. E. Lefflers Are Wedded Fifty Years

Delaware Water Gap — Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Leffler, this place, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Saturday, Sept. 27. Their three children hit upon a novel plan of assisting them in observing the event — a five-day trip to New York City.

They were guests at dinner at Gramercy Park Hotel, Brooklyn, N. Y., and to a different place each succeeding night. Saturday night they attended a supper at Congregational church, Brooklyn of which they were former members where they met many of their old friends.

Their children are Miss Nora Leffler, at home; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Gardner, New York City, and Mr. and Mrs. J. Martin, West Hempstead, Long Island, N. Y., sons-in-law and daughters. Mr. and Mrs. Leffler were married in Harrisburg. They resided in New York City 28 years where the former served on the police force. On being retired, the family moved to this place over 20 years ago. Mr. Leffler served several terms as chief Burgess, also as water commissioner here. He is active in Boy Scout work and also Pocono Mountain Motor Club.

Luther Leaguers Skating Party At Stroud Rink

The roller skating party of the Hamilton Luther League held Thursday night, Sept. 25, at Stroud Roller Rink, was the principal event for the month of September. This proved a most enjoyable affair marked, naturally, with plenty of spills and thrills. Numerous parents and friends of the young people were in attendance.

The October special event will be a Halloween masquerade party, details for which will be announced.

The next regular meeting of the group will be held Sunday, Oct. 5, at 7:30 p. m. at the Hamilton Square church. All young people of the parish are invited to attend.

Hold Rally Day Services At Po. Union Church

Henryville — Rally Day was observed at the Pocono Union Church Sunday morning, Sept. 28. Richard Post, the superintendent, was in charge. Mrs. Post, assistant superintendent, distributed Rally Day tags to all on their arrival.

The service opened with prayer by Mr. Post. There was hymn singing and reading in union of Proverbs III. Hildgarde Easman was heard in a piano solo after which Mrs. Post made the announcements. Reading and comment made on the publication of the revised standard version of the Holy Bible took place.

Attention was called to the approaching annual Monroe County Sunday School convention after which Mrs. William Stewart led the children in children's songs. The service was closed with a hymn and the Mizpah benediction.

Capacity Crowd Greet Jaroff Male Chorus

The Jaroff Male Chorus and dancers were greeted with a capacity audience at the auditorium of East Stroudsburg State Teachers College Monday night, the first number in the series of attractions for the 1952-53 season of the Pocono Community Concert Assn.

The chorus was heard in three groups of numbers which opened on four based on religious topics. The second group was along lighter veins, all of which were heard with much pleasure.

The final numbers were also of a character which brought out amusing situations. The two dancers proved among the best seen locally in a long time, their gyrations and lightning like changes bringing them tumultuous applause.

Serge Jaroff, the diminutive director, created much laughter as he tripped on and off the stage with grace personified. His handling of his singers, too, is so different from the ordinary conductor, that one could not help but be impressed.

The chorus is well balanced and responded beautifully to their director.

Diamonds may be a girl's best friend, but it's a sapphire that writes the choicest letters — romantic or otherwise. If you doubt me, I have proof direct from George Lex, factory salesman for Waterman fountain pens, who visited yesterday in our stationery department.

Mr. Lex showed me the handsome Waterman, designed to retail at $5, that will make its debut in time for Christmas giving—something between the first and 15th of November. It represents, he explained, the first time in the history of writing that a jewel has been used as the contact between pen and paper. # Life of Riley

By JIM RILEY
Sports Editor

Members of the Pocono Mountains Baseball League will gather at the Bartonville Hotel today, at 8 p.m., with the knowledge in mind that plenty of work must be done to put the circuit back on an even keel for the 1953 campaign. The big showdown has been building up for a long time, and the recent debate over the eligibility of Ray Steele and last Sunday's playoff clash between Tannersville and Bushkill only served to hasten the expected showdown mentioned above.

I would like to take this space today to talk a little bit about tonight's meeting and the events it will probably cover. However, first I would like to ask each and every person desiring to attend tonight's meeting, to arrive on the scene with a clear mind and without the temper that I am led to believe might be shown in this gathering. There is a lot at stake, but nothing will be gained by hot words and ranting over issues that have passed in recent weeks.

The Steele situation should be closed, as the circuit commissioner, Warren "Mag" Loney, has made the final decision, as per his position. Although there have been complaints heard over publishing the commissioner's entire statement, the recent letter only went to show that the league rules aren't officially the same as those carried out all season, although they were taken for granted down through the years. Although the ruling may not have been popular in some corners, nevertheless I think upon careful consideration everyone will have to admit that Loney made a sound ruling.

However, an amendment to the constitution tonight can very easily remedy the problem of adding professionals to the various rosters. I hope that an amendment of this type will be added, as placing professionals on team rosters is against the true meaning of amateurism and the Pocono Mountains League. However, both Tannersville and Bushkill shouldn't be questioned for their actions of last Sunday, as both teams played the game under a lot of pressure, with the home team adding three players, which the commissioner's findings made perfectly legal.

Instead of anger and heated debate, I am hopeful that the necessary amendment will be made to the constitution and by-laws that will make the final playoff round between Kunkletown and Bushkill thoroughly enjoyable and turn the 1953 campaign into one of the best seasons in the history of the Pocono Mountains League. If by-gones will be treated in a bygone manner, I'm certain that two teams, now talking of bolting the park next season, will be perfectly agreeable to returning for another fine season.

Tonight's meeting won't deal only with the 35 or so people in attendance, but instead will have a direct bearing on every guy and gal who has dropped his or her contribution in the hat this summer, at various games in the area. The teams making up the league have an interested following, although crowds at some games during the past summer months were on the small side. If the Pocono Mountains League should ever collapse, it would hurt many, many fans, not only the players who battle the heat and opposition every Sunday.

The Pocono Mountains League has been in name only for the past several years. Before this time teams were found in various corners of Monroe County and actually formed the frame work for the present 10-team circuit. The work done by such truly outstanding veterans as "Rick" DePue, Louis Lee, Charley Schoonover, Collins "Cop" Pechnika, Clint and Charley Becker, Morgan "Morg" Butz, Bob Starnier and a host of other baseball pioneers in this area.

Hot tempers and holding a grudge or two may combine to tear down all the work by the teams now in the circuit and by officers who have given freely of their time and ability during the past several campaigns. The latest issue staring the league in the face is only one of many obstacles that hit and are conquered, but right now it seems more important because it's fresh on our minds. Hasty action can cause plenty of trouble, while the addition to the constitution and by-laws of a simple amendment concerning the fact that rules governing regular season play also govern playoff action, can save the day.

This writer has been accused many times and in many places of carrying a grudge against the Pocono Mountains League. Nothing could be further from the truth, as every time I have differed with the circuit, it has been in a constructive manner, at least I believe that to be the case. However, many times my statements have had their meanings revamped, to the pleasure of several individuals in closing. I would like to say I played with and against many of the individuals making up the Pocono Mountains League, before the actual circuit was formed, and it is my sincerest wish that the league operate for many, many years in the future—although many refuse to believe my sentiments.

Bangor Grid Machine Hampered By Injuries

Three Ends May Miss Eastburg Game

Bangor — Coach Granville Evans, Bangor High football coach, might have figured that he was at the end of his troubles after last Friday's 20-14 victory over Catasauqua High, but instead the popular grid mentor is now having trouble with his ends, it was learned last night.

At the present time Evans is certain of having only one of his top ranking ends ready for Friday's invasion of Bangor's Memorial Park by an undefeated East Stroudsburg High grid machine, that has won its only two outings to date.

Joe D'Imperio is the only first string wingman certain of being in the starting array, as Bob LaPenna, who missed last week's game because of a leg injury, may be among the absent once again this week, for the same reason.

Bangor's passing game may also suffer if Joe Heard, another top ranking wingman, is unable to play full time on Friday. Heard was injured in a gym class yesterday and his condition may be such that he will be unable to face the Cavaliers. Heard is a first rate pass catcher.

Lou Casciano, another end, has been bothered with a side injury and may also be among the missing in the third game of the campaign. However, Evans has three likely wing candidates in Carlton Freeman, Walter Heard and "Bucky" Parsons, all of whom will see action on Friday, if the other three ends are unable to play.

Tackles
Rocco Cinelli, a first string tackle, is also hampered by a leg injury and may also miss his second, straight, contest. However, Evans is heartened by the news that Danny Pullo, who reported to the team only last week, may be ready to play more half this Friday. Pullo, veteran guard, has been hampered by illness.

Eddie Mugavero, place kicking specialist, is reportedly pushing Mike DeVito for the fullback post, while George Dallasandro will operate at quarterback as usual, with Jack Finelli and Tony Falcone at the halfback posts. Bangor is still hampered by the absence of Rodney Miller, who suffered a broken ankle prior to the opening game of the season.

Reliable Jim Rowlands will handle the center duties, both offensively and defensively, on Friday, while Pullo, Nick Castellucci and Joe Yannuzzi split the guard jobs, both from a defensive and offensive angle.

Ralph Stenlake and Tom Williams will be the offensive tackles, while George Dally, Anthony Falcone and Pat Pollicchia see action at the tackle positions defensively.

Bangor, operating out of the "T" formation, packs plenty of power both on the ground and in the air and is also strong defensively.

The Slaters have played two games thus far this season, defeating Catasauqua last week and losing to Stroudsburg in the first game of the season, 7-6.

Trigo Gains Decision

Miami Beach, Fla. (AP) — Mario Trigo, 142½, Los Angeles, scored a unanimous decision over Marcel "Rocky" Brisebois, 147, Montreal, in their 10-round main event at the City Auditorium last night.

Special Meeting Scheduled

Bartonville—John Wernett, secretary of the Pocono Mountains Baseball League, announced that the circuit would hold a special meeting here at the Bartonville Hotel today. The gathering is scheduled to take place at 8 p. m.

Business
The meeting has been called to discuss the recent decision on the eligibility of Ray Steele, handed down by league commissioner, Warren "Mag" Loney. Plans for the final playoff series will also be aired.

Series Clubs Lead With Aces

This is the 19th World Series appearance for the Yankees, who have won 14 and lost four. The Dodgers' luck in World Series play has all been bad. They've lost all five they've participated in, three times to the Yankees. They last met in 1949 when the Yanks took four out of five.

Manager Charlie Dressen is banking heavily on Black, his sensational rookie right-hander, who hurled 36 games during the regular season, 34 in relief. The willowy 28-year-old Negro won 15, lost four and saved 14 other games. Dressen plans to use Black in relief as well as a starter in the series.

Casey Stengel, who managed the Yankees to four pennants in his first four years with the club, said he would open with Reynolds, (20-8), start Vic Raschi (16-6) in the second game and follow with Ed Lopat (10-5) in the third contest, which will be played at Yankee Stadium.

Kings To Present Veteran Eleven

Kings College, fresh from a 33-6 victory over Delaware State last weekend, the first game of the campaign for the Monarchs, will feature a veteran grid machine in Saturday's tussle with East Stroudsburg State Teacher's College, on the latter's home field. The kickoff is scheduled to take place at 2 p. m.

Coach Jim Moran, Kings' coach and a graduate of West Virginia University, announced last night that his probable starting lineup for Saturday's contest will feature 11 lettermen, all back from last season.

The forward wall of the probable starting array will feature Lou Masguy, left end; Gene Chismore, left tackle; George Dombeck, left guard; Mike Mishkin, center; Dominick Pape, right guard; George Moses, right tackle, and Joe Craig, right end.

Kings' starting backfield will present Bob Olsahn at quarterback, while the other three members of the offensive quartet will be Joe Tondora, Bill O'Dea and Roy Balmer.

Kings, featuring a "T" formation will operate for the second straight season under a new coaching regime, Moran having taken over from Dominic "Dim" Montero, the latter having resigned from coaching for an industrial position.

With four former Wyoming Valley All-Scholastic quarterbacks available for duty, the Kingmen feature a wide open and diversified attack. The signal callers on hand are lettermen Olsahn and Joe Marcinko, Meyers graduate Kenny Hayden, and Coughlin's Joe Degnan. Degnan is listed as an end on the Red and Gold roster, but can quickly be shifted to the backfield if Moran feels the need. All four can throw the ball.

The Monarchs have a capable ground game to go with overhauled work. Joe Tondora, the team's top scorer in 1950, seems to have overcome injuries which kept him riding the bench last year most of the way. He will go at right halfback and share running duties with a number of other capable runners. One new man who might see a lot of action later in the season is Mike Petro, tiny freshman from Luzerne. Petro can go and is elusive.

Last year's top scorer, Harry Miller of Norwood, Pa., will be a threat from the left halfback slot.

Estimates of the number that will see at least one of the telecasts range from NES's conservative 25 million to the more optimistic 50 million by Mutual, which has both radio and TV rights but as yet has no TV network.

Jack Brickhouse, Al Helfer and Bill Corum will handle the radio broadcasts, and Mel Allen and "Red" Barber will do the telecasts.

Pep To Tangle With Savoie

Chicago, (AP) — Willie Pep, 30, former featherweight champion, will try to perk his comeback campaign tonight when he takes on Armond Savoie, Canadian lightweight and welterweight finalist, in a 10-rounder at the Chicago Stadium.

Supporting Bout
Almost overshadowing the Pep-Savoie scrap, is a supporting 10-rounder at 150 between Les Felton of Detroit, seeking his ninth straight win, and Del Flanagan of St. Paul.

Carter Gains Ring Nod
Newark, N. J., (AP) — Doug Carter, 139½, Newark, scored an eight-round decision over Mario Moreno, 141, New York, in the feature bout at Laurel Garden last night.

Former Pilot Of Reds Would Welcome Pittsburgh Position

New York, (AP) — Luke Sewell, former manager of the Cincinnati Reds, said yesterday he would be glad to become manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Shortly afterward, General Manager Branch Rickey of the Bucs, said he has no idea when he will name a field manager to succeed Billy Meyer.

Meyer, who quit the Buc post after five years last Saturday and has been offered a job of "trouble shooter" with the Pirates, is here to attend the World Series with Rickey.

Statement
"I wouldn't say yes or no on Sewell," Rickey declared. "Matter of fact, Meyer and I are sitting here right now discussing a successor. I would not say no or yes on anyone. I don't know when we will name Meyer's successor. It might be during the series or much later."

Cam Stops Lundy In Ninth Round
Portland, Me., (AP) — Joey Cam of East Boston knocked out Dick Lundy of Bliddeford last night in the ninth of 10 scheduled rounds.

Four Times
Cam floored Lundy four times during the bout before administering the sleeper, a right to the jaw. Cam weighed 126 and Lundy 133.

Flavor... Flavor...

Flavor that chill can't kill...

Here's beer that keeps its fine flavor even when served ice cold. Ballantine is deep-brewed for flavor!

Winter or summer, nothing quenches thirst like really cold beer. Ballantine brews for flavor. For lightness, yes! For dryness, of course! But first, and always, Ballantine brews for flavor. The fine, full flavor that chill can't kill!

Pour yourself a glass from a bottle or can right off the ice. Take a full swallow! See what we mean by deep-flavor brewed?

All-weather chill range

Surveys show that people like their beer cold—from 35° to 42° the year round. Ballantine Beer is deep-brewed to hold its flavor at whatever temperature you like best.

Judge Holds Audit Appeal Conferences

Conferences were held yesterday by Judge Edward P. Little with counsel for taxpayers who appealed the 1949 county audit and counsel for the former officials involved in the case.

No hearing was conducted, and court was not in session. Discussion revolved around a date for presentation of briefs by both sides, and for argument. Judge Little did not announce the date but it was expected to be sometime in November.

Rev. Newton Bids Farewell

Delaware Water Gap—A large congregation gathered at the Presbyterian Church Sunday morning to hear the farewell message of Rev. Hubert Newton. He spoke on "Faithfulness" using the text, "Be ye therefore steadfast, unmovable, always abounding in the work of the Lord for as much as ye know your labor in the Lord is not in vain."

He commended the congregation for the way they had upheld him in his work this past three years and mentioned each group by name: Sessions, trustees, choir, women's society, junior choir. He said the most needed contribution to the church is faithfulness in attendance. His only regret in looking back is that there had not been a regular mid-week prayer meeting and he urged his people to establish this.

The Senior Choir sang "Praise Ye the Lord" in which Mr. Newton took the tenor solo. "Beyond the Sunset" was sung by the Junior Choir, whose members are Camille Buzzard, Susan Heitler, Eleanor Kulp, Mary Etta Gray, Sandra Carlton, Marianne Drake, Elizabeth Redzig, Ingrid Weckwert and John Gray. Mr. Newton told his hearers that those who join the Junior Choir now and are faithful will be given new robes at Easter time. Just before the benediction, he came down and stood before the pulpit and declared the

1,700 Purchase Special Licenses For Doe Deer

P. A. Rockefeller, Monroe County treasurer, reported last night that approximately 1,700 doe deer licenses had been issued at his office in the courthouse since they became available about two weeks ago.

There is a steady influx of applicants for the special hunting licenses keeping the office force busy.

Monroe County's allotment of doe hunting licenses for 1952 season is 5,136. The open season covers three days, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, Dec. 15, 16 and 17.

Male Chorus Elects At E. S. High

Members of the Boys' Chorus at East Stroudsburg High School elected officers this week.

The following were chosen to serve in official capacities this year:

President, Dick Van Why; vice president, Fred Mursch and treasurer, Charles Reid.

Barbara Vogt, who serves as secretary for the girls' choral group, will also act as secretary for the male chorus.

There are 45 boys in the male chorus this year, Miss Bettejo Goodall announced yesterday.

The Girls' Chorus now has a membership of 60 students.

PACKARD RESALE PRICES CLIMB AS VALUE-WISE BUYERS PICK PACKARD FOR STYLING, VALUE!

All Over The Country New-Car Buyers Are Switching To Packard Because Its Advanced Contour Styling And Big-Car Luxury At Medium-Car Cost Make It America's Greatest Motorcar Buy! See, Drive, Compare Today's Great Packard! Packard's Higher Resale Value—Proved By Official Used-Car Records—Protects The Future Of Your Investment!

WHEN MAKING UP YOUR MIND about the best car for you to buy, don't forget the important plus of Packard's higher resale value! It's the soundest protection for the future of your investment.

• Latest records in the Official Used-Car Guide of the National Automobile Dealers Association show that '51 Packards bring up to hundreds of dollars more than cars of competitive original cost. Packard's higher resale value stems directly from the fast-growing nationwide demand for Packards. Outstanding advantages such as advanced contour styling and big-car luxury at medium-car cost have made the brilliant 1952 Packard this year's "hot car!"

• Only Packard gives you the flashing performance of the world's highest-compression eight—famous Ultramatic, the smoothest, safest and most dependable automatic drive—and proved Packard Power Brakes for quicker stops with 40% less foot pressure.

• Before you spend $2500 for any car, see and compare the '52 Packard—your best buy today and your best car investment for the future. Remember, "Built like a Packard" means built to last!
